	EPM01 Standard "D-shape" earpiece/microphone, fits around ear, has microphone with PTT button and clip to attach to clothes.	£10
	EPM06 Semi-covert earpiece/microphone. This has the clear plastic "audio tube" so it isn't so obvious that an earpiece is being worn. The microphone is on the wire to the earpiece and has a spring clip so it can be attached to clothing.	£14
	EPM05 Has an "in ear" earbud and also a support fits around the back of the wearer's ear, and an inline microphone with PTT button that can be clipped to the wearer's clothing. It is the best type to use in noisy environments such as nightclubs, bars or at live music events, because the sound emitted is closer to the wearer's eardrum than with other types of earpiece.	£14
	ACTM20 Two-wire semi-covert earpiece/microphone. This has the clear plastic "audio tube" so it isn't so obvious that an earpiece is being worn, and also has the microphone on a second long wire so that it can be worn down your sleeve etc.	£18

	LHS01D This is the standard "D-Type" earpiece that fits around the back of the wearer's ear, with the little speaker positioned over the earhole, with a lightweight "boom" microphone. It has the advantage of being hygienic when used by different people, because it doesn't push into the wearers ear.	£19
	LHS05 Headset with boom microphone, PTT button on wire with spring clip to attach to clothes.	£20
	RSM01 Speaker / microphone – allows user to have radio on belt or in pocket and this attached to their lapel or shoulder via spring clip	£14
	EPM22 This NEW earpiece/microphone looks very like typical "Ipod" earphones - it has an earpiece for each ear, and has an inline microphone with PTT button and a spring clip to attach the microphone to the wearer's clothes. Useful for covert surveillance - looks like wearer is just using an Ipod or similar music player.	£15
	CHS02 Aircraft-style headset ideal for very noisy environments – two sound-insulated earphones will cut off sound from around the wearer, allowing him to hear only radio messages	£30
	Leather carry case with neck strap for carrying a walkie-talkie radio round your neck. The leather case also helps to protect the radio from impact damage and water. It has an integral belt-clip.	£14
